J. S. Park and Bride Injured In Car Crash

Forced off Road by Speeding Motorist Near East Aurora— Mr. Park Suffered Fractured Left Arm, Making Incision Necessary.

A fractured left arm was suffered by J. Stratton Park and his bride of ten days received a deep cut near the knee and severe bruises, when their car was forced from the road to avoid collision with a speeding motorist about to pass at a point near East Aurora. The car in which Mr. and Mrs. Park were riding struck a telephone pole and was considerably damaged. In addition to injuries mentioned above, both occupants suffered from minor cuts, received from flying glass, and shock.

A third car, traveling a short distance ahead stopped following the accident and removed Mr. and Mrs. Park to East Aurora where medical attention was given. Mr. Park's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Park of Addison, were notified that evening by telephone and went to East Aurora on Tuesday morning. They brought the injured couple to Addison that evening. Yesterday Mr. Park was removed to the Packer Hospital in Sayre, Pa., for X-Ray and further medical attention. Word received last night from the hospital by Mrs. Charles F. Park, the injured man's mother, indicated that arm incisions had been necessary to effect a proper setting. Apart from the fractured arm, however, it is believed that Mr. Park suffered no serious injuries. Mrs. Park accompanied her husband to the hospital, although it was not necessary for her to receive further medical attention there.

Prize Offered To Longest Subscriber

Mrs. Fenimore Cooper of East Marion, L. I., was calling on old friends in Addison last week. While here she renewed her subscription to the Addison Advertiser, remarking on the fact the paper had been taken continuously in her family for sixty-three years. Her father, Mr. L. G. Lain opened a tin shop in Addison in 1870, subscribing for the Advertiser at that time. During the long stretch of intervening years the paper has always been in the household. When Mr. Lain died, Mrs. Cooper continued to take the paper in her own name.

The publishers would be interested to know if there is anyone who can lay claims to being a longer continuous subscriber to the Advertiser than Mrs. Cooper.

To add zest to the search for the oldest Advertiser subscriber, the publishers will offer to send the paper for one year free, to the family that has taken the paper continuously for the greatest number of years.

The ADVERTISER is now completing seventy-five years of service to the people of Addison and vicinity. Three quarters of a century is a long time for any institution to exist and hold the confidence of its patrons. Who will get the prize for being the oldest subscriber to this paper?

Two-Day Session of Steuben Baptist Group Held in Woodhull

The 116th annual County Association meeting brought a large crowd of church people here — The Rev. Harold Reed acted as moderator—The Rev. B. R. Croft led devotionals.

The 116th annual Baptist Steuben Association met in Woodhull, Thursday and Friday, September 21 and 22. A large crowd was in attendance. The Rev. Harold Reed of Hornell acted as moderator.

The Rev. Benjamin R. Croft led the devotionals Thursday morning. The annual sermon was preached Rev. George C. Horter of Painted Post had charge of the communion service and spoke on the command of Christ, "This do in remembrance what the broken body and the blood of our savior did for us.

In the afternoon Rev. Harold Reed welcomed into the association Rev. Joseph Williams, new pastor of Friendship Baptist church, Corning.

The Devotional message given by Rev. N. E. Miller of Savona was taken from John 12:21—"Sir we would see Jesus." His thought was that we should see Him in the morning to start the day aright; see Him at the noontide for strength to carry on, see Him in the evening to see how lives have measured up, see Him at the desk, in the school room, in the office, at the counter, in the field, by the plow, wherever we are, be conscious of His presence and seek to make our lives like his.

Dr. Norton of Keuka College presented the work of the State Convention. Keuka College is a Christian college for girls. Already 400 graduates have left the college equipped for service. Of a staff of 32, 28 are teachers. The aim of the college is to see that every pupil becomes a Christian before leaving the college. At present there are two Indian girls there preparing for work among their own people. There are 900 Baptist churches in New York State with a membership of over 200,000 besides the colored membership. Of these 900 churches 500 are in rural communities. Among the Indians on the reservations there is a church, and Christian Endeavor society with 60 members. Twenty-two Indians were baptized in the last year. Also there is the work among the foreign born in the United States, the Colporter work, the summer assemblies, boys' camps, World Wide Guilds, and Ministers' meetings, all under the supervision of the State Convention.

Mrs. B. R. Croft led the devotional service in the Women's hour. Mrs. E. L. Roys of Borden had the pleasure of introducing her own sister, Martha Gifford, M. D., of Burma as one of the missionary speakers. She gave interesting accounts of the customs, etc., of the Burmese people, and of the work of evangelism in that country.

The Rev. W. J. Longley of South India said there were 350 million people in India with many divisions, political, religious and social. There are 240,000,000 Hindus who worship idols and cows. Re. Longley quoted Mahatma Gandhi as saying if all the cows in India died, Hinduism would die. The other major religion is Mohammedanism. He said the low caste and untouchables were the ones who most readily accepted the gospel. The Rev. Longley gave one instance where 2,200 people were baptised at one baptismal service. In one year 10,000 were baptised. The churches, now that America is withdrawing her support, are learning to become self supporting. Accepting Christ in India means ostracism, again quoting Gandhi as saying "Thousands of young people in India are secret Christians. Dr. Longley led the discussion of the "Laymens' Report." Some of the questions brought these answers; native missionaries reject the report; not subsidiaries but sin in the churches is the cause of lack of growth; there is nothing in heathen religions that can be adapted to Christianity. Ten dollars a month will keep a native worker and small family on the field. Mission schools are necessary; women are doing a work that men can not do, because homes are not open to men; the standard required of native workers has gradually increased from fourth grade requirements to high school and seminary training.

Rev. Ralph Chaffee of Caton used as his topic the 17th chapter of John, the prayer of Jesus for His disciples, bringing out many helpful and inspiring thoughts, and leaving this motto for his hearers, "By flesh do what you can, by faith do what you can't."

Dr. J. Wesley Searles of Hornell spoke on the church. He said there should be a change of policy in the church to meet the changing conditions of the world today. He challenged the assertion that ministers today are not spiritual. Ministers are not ringing door bells now days, not touching life in their communities. Speaking of the financial side of the church, he said the ethical standards of the church affected the spiritual standard, that the scarcity of trained teachers in the Sunday school was a handicap, that the unwillingness of normal and college trained teachers to accept responsibility in the Sunday school was a known fact.

Re. Leslie Gould took as his text "Ye must be born from above" and illustrated his thought with a blackboard diagram of the kingdoms of this world, and the impossibility of those of one kingdom entering into the realm of another kingdom. This necessitates being born from above before one can enter into the spiritual kingdom. When born again the command to go and preach will give such passion for lost souls that one will work as a partner of Jesus and bring them in. Every parent should instruct their own children and bring them to Jesus. Workers must learn to make the right contact with people and remember the promise "My word shall not return unto me void."

Rev. G. L. Cutton conducted the forum in the afternoon, Friday. Questions on church problems brought these answers: Bible verses memorized should be applied to every day life. Every parent should so teach a child the truths of the gospel that it will feed the spiritual hunger. In Cradle Roll work a visitation is most helpful. Ministers must understand educational work being done in Sunday School. Teachers should be trained for Sunday School work. Apply modern methods in teaching. Give young people responsibilities, observe young people's month.

Officers elected for the coming year were; moderator, Rev. E. L. Roys of Borden; associate moderator, Rev. N. E. Miller of Savona; clerk, Rev. Leona Sisson of Urbana.

Members of the missionary committee are Rev. Leslie Gould, Corning; Rev. Harold Reed, Hornell; and Rev. Benjamin Croft, Woodhull.

Ordination committee, Rev. Geo. C. Horter, Painted Post; Rev. Harold Reed, Hornell; Rev. N E. Miller, Savona.

Nominating Committee Rev. G. N. Arnold, Gibson; Rev. Leslie Gould, North Corning; Rev. Carl Dawkins, Canisteo; Rev. Ralph T. Chaffee, Caton.

Committee on Evangelism: Rev. Leslie E. Gould, North Corning; Rev. G. C. Horter, Painted Post; Rev. G. N. Arnold, Gibson.

Committee on place and preacher: Rev. Harold Reed; Hornell; Rev. Kenneth Arnold, Addison; Rev. N. E. Miller, Savona.

Committee on state of religion: Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold, Addison; Rev. Harold Reed, Hornell; and Rev. G. F. Johnson, Corning.

The next Association will be held in Canisteo. Rev. N. E. Miller of Savona to preach the annual sermon with Rev. Kenneth Arnold of Addison as alternate.

Rev. G. F. Johnson of Penn Yan gave a review of twenty-one years of labor as an associational missionary in New York State. Rev. Johnson retires from this position October 1st. A resolution was passed asking the State convention to make adequate provisions for Rev. Johnson after his retirement.

The report on Sunday schools was favorable. The report on the state of religion advised a progressive program of evangelism in the churches of the association.

Lady Motorist Has Narrow Escape

Miss King of Buffalo Crashes Into Tree Near Woodhull—Car Damaged.

Miss Ethel King of Buffalo escaped injuries in an automobile accident near here early Tuesday morning. Miss King, who had been visiting friends in New York City, was returning home, traveling during the night hours. She fell asleep and lost control of her car, a Plymouth coach, which crashed through the fence and landed, at length headon in an elm tree. The tree had to be cut down before the car could be removed. The radiator and front fender on the car were badly bent and the damages were repaired at the local garage and she continued on her journey in the afternoon. The young lady received no injuries.

Constable John Miller was in Bath Tuesday night with Billy Newman, who had taken goods unlawfully from the Leon Johnson home on Pulteney Hill, where he had been working.

Woodhead's Co. Assessed Fine For Evading Milk Law

The Western New York Milk Producers Co-operative Association, was fined $200 by the state this week, for selling cream at an illegally low price. Albert Woodhead, erstwhile strike leader and self-styled friend of the dairymen, is president of the association.

This development goes far to prove that Woodhead is not the unselfish ally of the farmer he has set himself up as being. At about the same time he was organizing milk strikes, Woodhead's organization was injuring the farmers' market by selling cream at a cut price.

Besides penalizing Woodhead's association, which embraces about 1,000 farmers, the State Milk Control Board declared in a memorandum that the prices paid by the organization for milk in June were "much below the average prices."

The board found that the association on Aug. 25 and again on Aug. 28 sold five cans of cream to the Hudson Dairy of Rochester for $11 a can, whereas the minimum price for fluid cream fixed by the board under its emergency powers is $15 a can. Woodhead defended the sale on the ground the association believed the cream was to be used for manufacture of ice cream, in which case an $11 price would have been proper.

For each of these sales the board imposed the maximum fine of $100 allowed under the Emergency Milk Control Law.

In addition, the Hudson Dairy was ordered to pay Woodhead's association "at least $50," representing the difference between the proper price and the price paid for the cream.

If the association does not pay its penalty of $200 before Oct. 5, its application for a state license will be denied, the board said.

The fine, the official said, was imposed "as civil penalty for violating on two occasions the minimum price orders of the board."

In a 600 word , memorandum State Milk Director Kenneth F. Fee, reviewed the application of Woodhead's organization for a license, and said:

"The evidence considered at the hearing given the association on Sept. 20 shows that on two occasions five 40 quart cans of cream were sold to Reuben A. Cohen, doing business as Hudson Dairy. The association claims it supposed that this cream was to be used in the manufacture of ice cream.

"The evidence shows that Cohen does not manufacture any ice cream and has not done so in the past, that his business consists in the sale of fluid milk and fluid cream.

"When the cream was delivered to him, it does not appear that any statement was made as to its disposition."

Miss Lena Minier of Canisteo spent the first of the week with her mother, Mrs. Eliza Miner.

A SIMPLE REMEDY

For ages there have been what doctors called, "folklore" regarding the beneficial effects of sulphur on persons afflicted with rheumatism. Now recent discoveries seem to bring some foundation in fact for this belief.

Drs. Michael Xavier Sullivan and Walter Cohen Hess of Georgetown University maintain there are more people afflicted with arthritis than tuberculosis. In their experiments these doctors clipped the finger nails of persons with and without arthritic conditions. They discoved that arthritic individuals had less sulphur in their finger nails than persons free from the disease. The investigators inferred that germs form some substances which combine with sulphur and so deprive the body of the sulphur it requires.

Carrying their experiments a step further Sullivan and Hess injected some patients with a colloidal sulphur preparation. The patients improved.

It is too early yet to predict the scourge of arthritis will soon be wiped out, but it is well within the range of possibility and these experiments will eventually bring relief to thousands of sufferers. Often from simple little things, great benefits to humanity develop.

Scoffers at miracles have decried the idea that Christ could have moistened mud and cured blindness by placing the clay on a blind man's eyes. Yet if scientists are able to cure so baffling a malady as arthritis with so simple a thing as sulphur, dare any man say there were no miracles of healing at the beginning of the Christian era, any more than he can deny there are miracles of healing today?

SCIENCE ADVANCES

Many people are aware that a new substance sold under trade names of Bakelite or Durez, came into use a few years ago. This comparatively new invention of the scientist is now widely utilized for making small molded shapes such as fountain pens, ignition distributor caps and scores of other things requiring a hard, strong substance.

These plastics are made from many synthetic resins, best known of which are those made of phenol and formaldehyde, urea and formaldehyde, glycerol and phthalic anhydride, and vinyl compounds. Late developments with these resins have widely extended their field of use, and made possible the molding of much larger objects such as chair legs, table tops and radio cabinets. Recently tanks nine feet in diameter have been moulded from one of the compounds.

Dr. Carleton Ellis, a research chemist has been surveying the late developments in this synthetic resin field, and believes the time is not far distant when these substances will be used to build dwelling houses.

"Science is an ever widening field of search for new and better ways of doing things. A few years ago fear was expressed that the world's supply of lumber might soon be exhausted, and builders would be hard put to devise means of replacing buildings. Since that time there have been great strides made in lumber substitutes, such as wall boards, made of gypsum and various fibers, that make better sheathing and insulating materials than boards. All steel houses have been built in limited numbers, and now with the scientists turning their attention to developing these resins for building purposes, almost anything may be expected.

Bakelite, and other makes of substances as well, offer marvelous possibilities as building materials. Impervious to water, non-rusting or corroding, fireproof dwellings may be fashioned from it, which will require neither paint nor stain. Beautiful effects may be achieved through the wide possibilities this substance offers in coloring.

Surely the world moves on, and the ever searching scientist is constantly bringing forth new ideas and creating substitutes for articles that are far better than the original.

THE ARROWS OF TAXATION

A cartoon in the Detroit News shows a figure representing the American taxpayer, completely surrounded by arrows shot in his direction, each labeled "tax". Some of the arrows have penetrated his clothes, his lunch basket and his body, and he is obviously in imminent danger of a complete demise.

That is a very apt illustration of the plight of the individual at present. The arrows of taxation have never flown so swiftly or so thickly. They come from every point of the compass and they come in bunches. Their number is constantly gaining. Their points become ever sharper.

It would be interesting to make a list of all the taxes Americans living in one place or another are required to pay. It would take up a lot of paper. The old, tested taxes, such as those on property, have been overshadowed by a multitude of new and experimental taxes. We pay them on income, upon the gasoline or electricity we use, upon the securities we own, upon the hat we buy, upon the movie shows we go to and the clubs we join. Special tax after special tax is suggested and passed — and every article of service upon which it is inflicted is already paying other taxes either directly or indirectly.

Cities, counties, states and the Federal Government have been engaged in a spending spree ever since war time. They've grown drunk upon it. In their eyes luxuries become necessities, and economy and efficiency are forgotten terms. They want more public money—and when the source from one supply runs low, they simply tap a new one. And the arrows of taxation are shooting holes in pants and pocketbooks.

WAGES

A few days ago an apprentice to a tinsmith in a nearby city became dissatisfied with his wages of ten dollars a week, and wrote to the local interpreter of the NRA code. He was informed that an apprentice should receive eighty per cent of a mechanic's wages, which in that case would raise the boy's wages to twenty-eight dollars a week. Because this boy could not possibly earn twenty-eight dollars a week his employer dismissed him.

It looks as if, like the character in the Bible, "the last state of that man" (under NRA) "was worse than the first." The boy was learning a trade, and at the same time earning ten dollars a week. As it happened the boy's father was out of work, so the money he earned, though small wages, was at least a safeguard against starvation. Now what will be the result of this interpretation of NRA in that particular case?

Of course, that is more or less guess work, for the boy or his father may secure work again. But the most probable end to the story may be that the family will now go on the rolls for public support, and the taxpayers will foot just that much bigger bill than they had before.

So sure has William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, felt of his grip on NRA, that he recently demanded that his organization be made co-administrator of all codes. Yet NRA has been almost as busy settling strikes and getting men back to work, as it has been in creating new jobs.

If NRA, or any similar attempt to regulate industry and labor, is to work, then the working man as well as the industrialist may lay aside some of his selfishness. It is just as impossible for Labor to find employment without Capital to make the job, as it is for Capital to make money without Labor to turn the wheels. Labor seems to have jumped to the conclusion that the present time is the moment to enforce all the demands it has ever had on Capital, without regard to whether or not there is enough money left in Capital, to keep the ship above water. Yet, there are instances where the workers are just as loyal to their employers as they have ever been, and are worried like the latter with new wrinkles which would prevent their giving the whole-hearted services they have always tried to render.

People as individuals are usually fair and willing to do their part for their employers and for society in general. But people herded together are often ruled by the thoughts of radicals, who sway the mass with ideas conceived for only one purpose, self-benefit. That is why people in small communities are as a class more reasonable, and possessed more with the spirit of brotherly love, than people in large cities, and large plants.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

On October 9, Fire Prevention Week will make its 1933 start. Once more a great, organized effort will be made to impress upon the nation the waste, the non-necessity and the tragedy of fire.

During the past years a steadily increasing number of cities and towns have joined in the week. The opening gun is fired by the President of the United States, who issues a proclamation calling upon every citizen to help make America safer against the ravages of fire. Many Governors follow with proclamations of their own, as do city officials. Insurance organizations, civic clubs, chambers of commerce, newspapers, trade associations and fire departments enlist together to make the week a success.

Past Fire Prevention Weeks have done much good, and saved thousands of lives and millions of dollars worth of property. But the public has only half-learned the lessons offered—fire loss drops sharply during the week and for a few weeks following, and then rises again to previous levels. Too many, when the first flush of enthusiasm has passed, drop back into old habits that allow fire hazards to grow and multiply.

Fire Prevention Week should mean even more than usual this year. The United States has started on the road to business recovery—and that recovery would unquestionably be expedited if the hundreds of millions we waste annually thru fire, could be saved. Every citizen should regard it as his duty and privilege to take an interest in Fire Prevention Week and to practice its teachings throughout the entire year.

There has been a lot of curiosity in Washington as to how the civil service will fare under the administration. Washington is finding out. It seems to be perfectly clear that most of the new democrats are trying to ditch the merit system in the interest of party spoils.

FLIGHTS FROM

THE BIRDHOUSE

By Rev. J. V. AXTELL

The Bird With the Dual Personality

There are a number of birds that live best where men have cleared the forests. I never see a starling nor English sparrow in the deep woods, nor the bobolink. The starling and English sparrow live around our houses, and the bobolink in the fields.

Bobolinks belong to the blackbird family and are cousins of the cowbirds, grackles and red-wing blackbirds. Possibly you would not recognize Mrs. Bobolink at all for she is colored like a big sparrow and tends strictly to her home duties. She does not sing like her husband does, and as the home is in a little hollow in the ground in the meadow she is seldom seen. But Mr. Bobolink makes himself both seen and heard. We see him balancing himself on a slender weed stalk in tall blades of grass singing his song of "Bob - O - Lincoln, Spink, Spank, Spinken," and if you get too close he sends a radio message home to his wife to be on her guard.

Most birds are darker on the back with lighter colors underneath. But Mr. Bobolink is black except a buff patch on the back of his head and neck, a white back and white feathers daintily arranged in his wings. This is as we know him when he arrives in April and until about the middle of July. After that we hardly know him at all, for he is a changed bird. He has stopped singing, the white on him has become rusty, and the black is faded, so he is quite disguised.

Now the bobolinks are different from most birds that fly South for the winter, in that they do not make a non-stop flight, but take their time making themselves at home all along the way. In their faded suits of clothes and traveling southward, they are called "Red Birds", and when they have moved into the Carolinas and settled in the rice fields, they are known as "Rice Birds". Here big flocks gather and do considerable damage to the rice crop.

What a change! Our harmless, and in many ways, helpful meadow bird, with his song that sounds like gentle rain drops falling on a burnished tin pan. catching the crop-destroying insects, has become the destructive robber of the rice fields. The boys and girls up north see Mr. Bobolink as he puts on his best manners as well as his best clothes. But the boys and girls down south see him as a destroyer and a robber. The same bird acting the part of the hero in one place and as the villain in another place.

You boys and girls have read Treasure Island by Robert Louis Stevenson and at school have learned some of his beutiful poems while your fathers and mothers have probably read another book he wrote about a man who acted so different at different times that folks knew him as two men. When he was good he was Dr. Jekyll and when he was bad he was Mr. Hyde, and when this man was bad he was so bad, and he did such nasty things to folks and his face looked so ugly at such times that nobody suspected that he and the good doctor were the same man.

I once took some boys for a camping trip to a beautiful lake. One of the boys was, for the most part, a splendid fellow. He entered into the sports with a will, he would take his turn at washing dishes, carrying wood and doing the hard things connected with camping and he never complained about blistered feet, nor the sore muscles from carrying his pack. But now and then he would fly into a rage and act as though he were violently insane. He was not the same boy at such times. Of course it spoiled him because the other fellows could never tell when he would have what my grandmother used to call a "tantrum". He was like the bobolink, he had a dual personality, a boy with two selves.

There was another boy in that party who was even tempered. He had a will of his own, and plans of his own that did not always fit into the plan of the troop, but he was every day alike, and often one could hear folks say of him, "I like Jack (that was not his name) because he is always the same."

Many Party Leaders Would Like To Wear Farley's Crown

Albany, Sept. 26—Rumblings from all quarters of the Empire State indicate that one of the three crowns which the Hon. James A. Farley now wears so jauntily may be missing most any fine day. Not the Postmaster Generalship crown nor the Democratic National Chairmanship crown. They seem fairly secure. But if Mr. Farley doesn't lose his crown as Democratic State Chairman and isn't driven into the tall timbers by some of the self appointed Democratic leaders who are springing up over the state like mushrooms in cow pastures, then there is no virtue in numbers. If the present rate of increase keeps up, it won't be long until there will be more generals than privates, each one, he is firmly convinced, fully capable of running the party affairs not only in his own town and county, but in the State if called upon.

Many Cooks Spoiling the Broth

These newly hatched leaders, in their search for a share of the Democratic plums, both State and Federal, which are supposed to lie just around the corner, are running about in so many different directions and doing so many different things that the old stagers of the party who have borne the brunt of the battle for lo, these many years are not only alarmed but disgusted at the exhibition and make no attempt to conceal their feelings. In most cases their complaints bring no relief. The new leaders continue to multiply both in numbers and activity, and if they don't make a mess of things in some of the districts where the Democrats hope to elect an Assemblyman this fall, then the prophecies of the veterans will be all wrong.

Elmira Program a Flop

One thing upon which both the old and new crop of Democratic leaders agree is that the program adopted at Elmira a few weeks ago with a view to sweeping all Republicans out of the state was a mighty sight easier to make than to carry out. That program, it may be recalled, provided that the Democrats all over the state were to accuse their Republican neighbors of inefficiency and mismanagement in the village, town and county governments and were to ask that Democrats be elected in their places. "That was a lot easier for Mr. Farley to say than it is for us fellows to do", said one of the new leaders in Albany seeking advice the other day. "As to cutting expenses, the various Republican boards got the jump on us in that. And when it comes to asking voters to turn over the affairs of the villages, cities, towns and counties they begin to talk to us about what our party has done in the way of economy and efficiency while it has been in control of the state, and in the City of New York, and in Albany city and county, as well as a lot of other places they mention. Mr. Farley didn't tell us a single thing to do in a case like that, and I am here in Albany to get some dope on it." The upstater called on some leading Democrats, but what he gleaned from them was not revealed.

* * *

Greatest Blunders of All

Perhaps no others of the new-crop Democratic leaders are so ludicrous as those who have started in to plead for votes for local Democratic candidates "in order to support the president". Some of the less astute of these budding statesmen have even gone so far in some sections as to try to convince people who had signed up under the NRA that in so doing they had abandoned their Republican principles and became Democrats, at least during the present administration. So far as known, this latter type of campaigning was not openly advocated at the Elmira meeting but seems to be entirely original with the neophytes hatched out under the recent warm promises of plenty of jobs for ardent Democrats.

* * *

Rockland's Ringing Answer

Perhaps one of the best answers yet given to these questionable campaign methods was that delivered a few days ago by Laurens M. Hamilton, Republican candidate for Assembly in Rockland County. Pleas to elect Democratic local officials and thus "support the President" have been made at meetings there and Mr. Hamilton took notice of them in a recent address, "I resent that statement", he said, "because it tries to persuade people that the Republican party is not behind the President. The extent to which the Republican party has supported the President in the present crisis is a matter of record. You will find in that record that it was due to the patriotic support of Republican Congressmen, that efforts of certain Democrats, including most of those from New York, to upset the President's plan were frustrated. As Republicans we can be proud of the manner in which our party and its leaders have laid aside partisanship and have supported the President in this great emergency."

* * *

It May Be True—It May Not

According to the political organ of the Democratic organization in Albany, a report has been received here that Tammany Hall, contrary to expectations, will not be able to send any money upstate to aid there in the Democratic attempt to secure control of the Assembly. "It needs all it can scrape together for its own Mayoralty fight". The paper in question admits this will be something of a blow to the upstate Democrats, who had figured on at least $100,000 from the Tammany war chest. Astute political observers are not just sure whether this is a statement of fact or whether it is a bluff put out with the idea of inducing Republicans to ease up on their campaign. It appears not likely to accomplish the latter end in any event.

New Law Permits Use of 1933 Markers During January, 1934— Next Year's Markers, However, Should Not be Displayed Previous to January 1.

Albany, Sept. 18—Owners of motor vehicles, except omnibuses, who are in doubt as to the time of registration for 1934, are reminded that the 1933 plates, now in use on all cars registered in this State, will be valid until February 1, 1934, and it will not be necessary to pay a new fee until the close of next January.

A law enacted this year provides that "in order to give ample opportunity for renewing registration, any registration, except omnibus registration, in effect on the last day of December, may be used during the month of January following for the operation of the vehicle for which it was issued."

The same law, however, repealed the provision of law which permitted the display of new plates fifteen days before the beginning of the year for which they were issued. Consequently no 1934 plates may be lawfully displayed on motor vehicles before the beginning of the new year.

OPINIONS STILL DIFFER

A few days more and the elite of baseball will meet to settle the championship of the world for 1933. Giant devotees and partisans of Cronin's men abound on every corner. Here are a few at random:

JOHN O'KEEFE—"I'm pulling for Terry's men. But anything may happen. I look for seven games."

FRED SUTLIFF — "The Giants have a wonderful pitching staff but in my judgment Washington has the best balanced team. I pick the Senators to win."

MEL HUBBS—"I hope the Giants come through."

HAROLD HIBBARD — "The Giants will take four out of six. They have a far better pitching staff, superior fielding and the better manager. Ryan excells Cronin at short by a wide margin, New York, easy!"

DON GRANGE — "Washington is my hunch.".

MAYOR SISTO — "Washington can't win. The Giants are in."

ELMER KNEPLEY—"The Giants will turn the.. trick. They have a superior pitching staff and better fielding".

JOHN RUSS— "I would like to see Washington win and I think they will if they get the breaks".

MATT FLYNN — "Think New York ought to come through".

HAROLD SMITH — "The Giants will win because of better pitching and because they have a manager, Bill Terry, who understands baseball."

HENRY DAMON— "Washington should come through. But in a short series the breaks determine".

MAURICE TITUS—"I agree with Damon".

PHIL HICKEY—"The Giants are good for four out of six. Pitching will do it. Parmalee and Schumacher have unusual ability. Hubbell is one of the greatest left-handers in the game.

HARRY LAFFKAS—"I think the Senators will win and it won't go the limit either."

JOHN GRANGE— "Washington, four out of six. Hubbell is a real ball player—the only one the Giants have. But he can't trim a nine-man ball team."

CURTIS TAYLOR—"The Senators in six games. Hubbell will take two games, but these are all New York will get."

DOM DODDATO— "The Giants, four straight. In this order, Hubbell, Parmalee, Schumacher, Fitzsimmons—and it will be all over".

MORRIS TYSON— "New York will win but there is no money to back up what I say."

BURRELL VASTBINDER — New York. The Giants are fighters."

GUY MAYER—"Washington will cop. They have the hitters."

DICK BASTIAN—"Cronin's boys are my choice. They have a wonderfully well-balanced team."

FRED FROST— "I look for the Giants to win."

JIMMY GILHOOLEY—"Washington is my choice. They have a hustling ball club".

W. H. CROWL— "It's a toss-up. But I look for the Senators to come through.".

Addison Closes Regular Schedule With Victory

Wellsboro Last Victim of Regular Tri-County League Schedule — Riker's Double in Ninth Leads Rally to Snare Honors.

The Addison Tri-County League team closed their regular schedule with a victory over Wellsboro at Tuscarora Field Sunday by the score of 5 to 4. The game was one of the hardest fought of the year and Addison was forced to come from behind twice to finally rap out a victory in the ninth inning with two men out. Grange pitched for Addison and turned in his usual fine game. The visitors found him for three hits in the first and two runs, but from that time on he should have had a shutout, but for a couple of slips at inopportune times. He limited the visitors to five hits and in six innings retired the side in order. His support was sparkling at times and included a couple of fine stops by Hewson, fine catches by John Grange and Riffle, and some very effective high, wide and fancy hitting by Riker, who also fielded well. Riker in four trips to the plate drove out a mighty double, two singles and walked once. He scored two of Addison's runs and hit in another. The visitors pitching department was treated roughly. Yahn started, but only lasted until the second. Kline took up the burden and lasted until Addison started the final drive in the ninth, when Ludlum essayed to stop the locals but failed. Kline was the big hitter and Ludlum the best fielder for the visitors.

Hits by Kline, Confer and Hart with a sacrifice by Boom sent Wellsboro off to a two-run lead in the first. Hewson and Riffle singled to put Hewson on third in the first and Hickey's long fly to center sent him home. Riker, LaChance and D. Grange hit singles around a walk to Robbins to net the home team two runs in the second. Things then quieted down with Addison a run in the lead until the sixth, when a single, steal and error sent Kline across with the tieing run. The visitors took a run lead in the seventh on their first hit followed by an error and a wild pitch. As the seventh and eighth went by rapidly, helped by a double play when John Grange poled a red hot liner into the Wellsboro shortstop hands with Riffle on second in the eighth, that run looked like a mountain But the locals would not be denied. Hoyt worked Kline for a walk to start the ninth and when Kline made a balk walked down to second. Riker whamed a terrific double to left center and Hoyt hot footed it across the plate with the tieing run. With Riker on second and no one out it looked easy to send the winning run across, but many things happened before it was accomplished. LaChance and Robbins both hit to the infield and both were safe at first, filling the bases with no one out. Red Ludlum had replaced Kline after Riker's wallop. D. Grange boosted one to Boom in short left. Hewson and Ludlum worked long and carefully together and with the count 3 to 2, it looked as if Hewson had won a walk, but the Umpire ruled no and there were two out. Then Riffle came to the rescue and beat out an infield hit to second and the game was all over and everyone breathed easier and went home satisfied while Photographer Ralph Dykins assembled the Addison boys in center field and took their pictures.

The score follows:

CONGRESSMEN SEEN AS HARD WORKERS

Banker Tells of Labor Put in by Members of Congress on Mass of Technical Measures

OUTLINING legislative procedure, Robert V. Fleming, President Riggs National Bank, Washington, D. C., gave the recent convention of the American Bankers Association a description of the difficulties and problems confronting the law-makers. Mr. Fleming said in part:

"The most important part of organization of the two branches of congress is election of standing committees. There are 34 standing committees in the Senate and 46 in the House. These are the workshops of Congress and the real work of lawmaking is done in Committees.

"The task of legislating for 124,000,000 people is a tremendous one. Of recent years approximately 20,000 bills are introduced annually in the two Houses. Only a small percentage become law, but they must be weighed in committee, accepted or rejected, perhaps amended, reported out, and then considered on the floor.

"Lawmaking involves about 99% of hard and unspectacular work and about 1% of oratory. Few tasks appear so easy and are so difficult as enactment of sound and satisfactory legislation. Few individuals in any line of activity work harder or longer hours than the chairmen of the important committees during a session. I have great sympathy for the members of Congress whose constituents expect undivided attention to every piece of legislation in which they may be interested. From my personal observation, they earnestly and conscientiously endeavor to do all that is possible.

Public Hearings

"When a bill is introduced, referred to committee and printed, the next step, if it is a measure of considerable importance, is to conduct a public hearing. The committee makes an effort to listen to anyone who cares to be heard either for or against a measure, although witnesses are frequently limited as to time. Members of the Cabinet and other officials of the administrative departments of the Government usually testify on measures in which they are interested and furnish the committee information in executive session or otherwise.

"Due to pressure of work and the fact that it is impossible for members of Congress to be technical experts on every subject of legislation, the committees are inclined to give consideration to the merits of arguments presented in testimony and the recommendations of the Cabinet and other officials. It is therefore highly desirable, both from the standpoint of Congress as well as those affected by proposed legislation, that the latter have an opportunity to discuss frankly the effects of such legislation."

A Country Editor Looks at Banking

THE editor of the Norwalk, Ohio, Herald takes a somewhat different view of the banking situation from a good many people. His idea is as follows:

"With rents falling and unpaid, real estate does not present a happy picture. Nor does the owner of carefully selected bonds feel any happier, with a bunch of them going wrong. A lot of folks very carefully invested in preferred and common stocks in the finest companies in the world and have seen them fall to perhaps a tenth of what they paid for them, and no dividends at all. Some folks kept their money in savings accounts in banks, and some banks have closed and left them high and dry. But the situation is worth looking at very carefully.

"On government authority, most banks that closed were really solvent but for frozen assets and popular timidity. Gradually the closed banks are coming out from under and depositors in even bad cases will get at least 0 per cent of their savings. That's tough of course; nobody likes to lose half of what they had scrimped and sacrificed and saved. But when you hoard and stick the roll of bills in a coffee pot or under a mattress, some plug-ugly comes along and burns your feet till you tell him to take it and welcome.

"And what about the great majority of banks that weathered the storm, met all comers and are doing business as usual, carefully and conservatively, but safely? What about the savings in those banks? They are a full 100 per cent today—and they are the only thing we know of at 100 per cent anywhere. After all is said and done, a good, well managed bank is still the best place in all the world for money or savings. Right now in Ohio the banks pay the taxes on all savings and pay their depositors net interest on their savings. We can't think, just now, of many other investments that are a tenth as safe as a savings account in a solid bank. Why, even a savings account in a closed bank is actually worth more today than most stocks."

Pullets Should Be Housed Immediately

Houses Should Be Clean and Thoroughly Disinfected — Earlier and Better Production Attained By This Practice.

By Paul G. Riley, Formerly Professor Poultry Extension, Purdue University.

Egg prices are already showing the normal improvement. Everyone is interested in selling eggs at the time of the year when they bring good prices. In order to do this certain things are necessary, if we are to share in that most prosperous time of the year for good poultrymen, which is the three months of October, November and December, if eggs are to be procured during those three months, it is necessary that the pullets be housed immediately. All pullets that will make the maximum profit for their owner will be in their houses by October 1st.

There is one big reason why putting the pullets in the houses helps greatly in getting these desired higher priced eggs. That is because the pullets eat more feed when confined than they do when they are on range. The greatest answer to this is that the pullets and the feed are kept together.

Houses where the pullets are to be carried through the winter should be thoroughly cleaned, walls and ceiling brushed down, thoroughly disinfected with any good spray, floors—either concrete or wood should be scrubbed and disinfected, if dirt floors are being used, the old dirt should be removed to a depth of four or six inches and clean dirt put in its place, all the feeders and water fountains should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, and if possible, aired for a few days in the direct sunlight. Then the pullets are ready to go in the houses.

They should be watched closely to see whether there are any lice on the birds while they are being handled and the pullets should be confined to the house for at least thirty days after they are first put in. A great many of our best poultrymen are finding it profitable to keep the birds housed during the fall and winter months without even letting them out. Others prefer, after they have been confined for thirty days to start letting the birds out in the afternoon.

Housing pullets brings them into production much earlier in the year, produces a higher egg production than can be gotten with birds still running on the range, and adds possibly one-third in feed consumption. No one can expect to make any profit out of the production of eggs during the period of high prices without getting the pullets into the houses during the month of September.

Elkland and Addison Have Each Won Two Games — Deciding Game at Tuscarora Field — Ripley or Grange to Oppose Tanners.

The last game of the year will be played at Tuscarora Field next Sunday afternoon, and it will also be the fifth and deciding game of the season between the old rivals, Elkland and Addison. In regular league competion the two teams broke even. The tie was played off here Labor Day and Addison won a hair-raising battle between Ripley and Freburg by a close score. Later another game was arranged at Elkland for the benefit of Lawrence Smith, who suffered a broken arm on Labor Day. Elkland won this game and again tied the season's play between the two teams. The tie will be played off Sunday and doubtless to say, there will be real base ball.

Ripley or Grange will oppose Freburg or Baker and everyone will be out for victory. The teams have played even up ball for years and this closing game of the season will surely be a hummer. All Elkland will be over to take home the bacon and Addison will have its best lineup on the job. Don't miss this game. The game will be called at the usual hour and the record crowd of the year will be on hand, if the weather man is smiling.

TELL ME AN INDIAN STORY

School Children of the Sky

All this happened in those olden moons when each star in the heavens lived an equal distance from its neighbors. The kindly Star Mother patted each one on the head as she moved on the sky trails each night.

The star children asked her about the red children they saw playing down on the earth, and begged for a chance to go down and visit them. So, in response to their constant pleadings, the Star Mother said they could go if they would promise to return before the sun painted the sky with rosy color. Joyfully the little stars slipped down the moonbeam ladder and rested in the bosom of the quiet lake.

The stars saw the fishes darting beneath the lily pads, and noted the shimmering reflections from the shores, until morning. Remembering the promise, most of them hastened up the moonbeam ladder to take their accustomed places in the sky.

But many became so interested in earth affairs that they forgot their promise. So the Star Mother called on the Great Sky Bear and he blew his breath and shook the surface of the lake into waves. This so frightened the forgetful stars that they hurried up the moonbeam ladder just as it was about to be drawn up for the day. As each tardy star reached the top, the Star Mather made him forfeit his former place, and gathered them all close to her in the sky.

So, when you look at the heavens you now see all the forgetful little stars gathered in a great cluster which we nowadays call the "Milky Way."

September Is Best Peach Month In New York Says Commissioner

The Bumper Crop of Albertas Is Available Now—Canning For Winter Is Advised

By CHARLES H. BALDWIN
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets Albany, New York

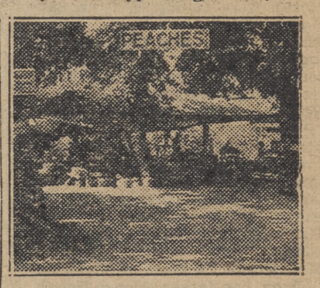
LET every prudent housewife take full advantage now of the splendid crop of late New York State peaches to be found on the markets and the wayside stands in abundance during early September.

In New York State we are apt to think of the "peach season" as an August occasion, but September is also a peach month in New York. Southern peaches find their way to our markets early, but the New York State consumer well knows that no peach flavor can compare in any way to that which comes from the home grown variety, picked and shipped when ripe on the tree, rather than when green and artificially ripened.

Albertas Available Now

Our home grown peaches come in quantity during early and mid-August, but the major portion of New York State peaches, including the big crop of Albertas, is available right now. Especially in our western New York peach sections, a seemingly endless procession of trucks and cars carry magnificent specimens of this delicious fruit to the September markets.

And now is the time to can the fruit, if cellar and storeroom shelves are not already well stocked with the luscious golden dessert of days to come. No fruit is better adapted or easier to can than peaches. The canning and dried peach industries have revolutionized peach growing in the United States, giving us access to world markets. Then there are peach butter, peach marmalade, peach jelly, peach preserves, pickled peaches, peach cobbler and short cake, peach pie, peach sherbet and ice cream, old fashioned peaches and cream, brandied peaches, and many other appetizing dishes, recipes for which will be furnished anyone sending a postal card request to Consumers' Information Service, State Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, N. Y.



An open-air peach market in New York State

New York Peaches Are Large

The outstanding features of our New York peaches among stoned fruits are their wide distribution, large size, great beauty, delicacy and diversification of flavor, the great number of available culinary uses, and the large quantity of fruit provided for a small cost to consumers. Never cloying the appetite, peaches may be used economically in scores of preparations, and best of all fresh from the tree or sliced and served in thick, rich cream from New York State dairies.

To Winter Gloxinia

Mrs. H. S. asks: "Would you please advise me how to care for my gloxinia plants in winter. Should I put them in the cellar, or keep them in the windows?"

Miss Lua Minns of the department of floriculture says, "I am copying a paragraph from Bailey's Cyclopedia on the care of gloxinias and hope you will find it satisfactory. I have not had personal experience with keeping these over in a home. Here in the greenhouse we often leave them in the soil, dried off, with the pot placed under a bench in a cool greenhouse, or the tubers are shaken out of the soil and stored in a paper bag in the Floriculture office over winter.

"As soon as the leaves have all ripened off, the pots should be stored away in some convenient place for winter, in a temperature of about 45 degrees given just sufficient water to keep the tubers from shriveling. About the middle of February the tubers will show signs of starting into growth. A batch should be started at this time, choosing the tubers which appear most active, and the remainder should be held back for another month; this gives a much longer period of blossoming. The tubers should have all the old soil shaken off and should be potted again in clean well-drained pots, using sizes just large enough to accommodate the tubers. They should be given but little water until active root-growth commences. As soon as the pots are filled with roots, they should be shifted on at once into the permanent pots as frequent shifts would more or less damage their leaves, which have a tendency to cling around the sides of the pots. The first batch should come into flower in June."

Extention Course in Floriculture

R. C. P. asks: "Does the college of agriculture offer any extension courses in floriculture and does the college have any bulletins on the subject?"

Professor E. A. White says, "I am sorry that we do not give a course and cannot because of lack of funds to provide an instructor to take charge of the work. The only school I know which has an extension course is the Standard School of Floriculture at Sedallia, Missouri.

I am asking our mailing room to send you bulletin E-47, which is a list of our publications, and if you are interested in any of them we shall be glad to send them to you. Also I am sending a list of some of the best books and publications on floricultural subjects."

Cornell Holstein Cow Breaks World Record

Produces More Butterfat in Ten Months Than Any Other Animal of Her Age and Breed.

Cornell Ollie Pride, a cow bred and owned by the New York state college of agriculture at Cornell University, has just made more butterfat in ten months than any other Holstein-Friesian cow of her age in the world. Pride, registered in the Holstein-Friesian herd book as number 1450173, was born September 21, 1929.

Since the day of her birth, Pride has been working for the college. To six months of age she served with a group of half-sisters in a calf-feeding experiment. During this period she made an average daily gain of 1.66 pounds. Her total food from birth to six months of age was 222 pounds of whole milk, 150 pounds of dried skim milk powder, 225 pounds of fitting ration, and 716 pounds of clover mixed hay. At prevailing prices, her feed cost to six months of age was about $15.

During her first summer, she was on pasture; but the pasture was poor as the season was rather unfavorable for the growth of pasture grass.

November 1, 1930, Pride was again drafted, with her half-sisters, to study whether corn silage is essential in the winter ration of yearling dairy heifers.

In 1931, Pride was again on pasture, this time with good forage. During the next few months she showed students in animal husbandry at Cornell the ideal type of her breed.

By September 1, 1932, Pride had such a large udder that it became necessary to milk her before she calved. She actually milked over 50 pounds of milk a day before calving. Several of her half-sisters have done likewise.

Pride's calf was born September 11, 1932. She began her test September 15, 1932. At that time she was 2½ years old; so she was tested in the senior two-year-old class B, and has been milked three times a day.

She was bred January 17, 1933, to Prince Ormsby Inka May and is due to calf again October 24, 1933. Since she has already carried her calf 200 days she will meet the calving requirement, which is that she must drop a calf within fourteen months of the previous calving.

A Holstein-Friesian cow may be tested for a 305-day record or for a 365-day record. Pride is being carried through the 365-day test, and has already qualified for the world's record in the 305-day class. She will finish third, or perhaps second in the 365-day class.

The former holder of the world's record as a senior two-year-old had a record of 16,123.6 pounds of milk containing 620.2 pounds of butterfat. At the end of the 305th day, Pride had produced 16,986.5 pounds of milk containing 643 pounds of butterfat, and thus won by a margin of 23 pounds.

The butterfat test is 3.8 per cent; any test over 3.5 per cent is excellent for a Holstein-Friesian cow.

Cornell Ollie Pride weights 1700 pounds and has lost nothing in quality in attaining such good size. She has been rated as "excellent", the highest rating a cow can have in quality, by Ward Stevens, a competent Holstein-Friesian judge.

Pride was sired by Pietertje Ormsby Mercedes Ollie No. 518893, a bull owned by W. D. Robens, Poland, N. Y., and leased to Cornell University. The dam of Ollie is Pietertje Ormsby Mercedes Lady, one of the most excellent daughters of Sir Pietertje Ormsby Mercedes 37th. The dam of Pride was Pride Pontiac Colantha Queen No. 1337324, one of the cows in the Cornell University experimental herd.

It is hoped Pride will present to Cornell University a bull calf sired by Prince Ormsby Inka May. Prince Ormsby Inka May is a son of Sir Inka May and out of Princess De Ormsby, another good daughter of Sir Pietertje Ormsby Mercedes 37th.

Paul Dean has been caring for the test cows in the college herd during the past year. Two cows in this string have finished with world's records, and a number of other notable records are being completed. S. G. Eddins is the herdsman at Cornell University, and the supervision of the herd is in the hands of Professor E. S. Harrison and E. S. Savage.

Housing Pullets

B. B. B. asks: "Some of my pullets have started to lay. I do not believe that some of the other pullets will lay for six weeks or more. Just when should they be housed?

Professor H. E. Botsford says the whole flock should not be judged by the few best developed pullets. If the flock is large enough, it is advisable to house the most mature birds now and another group in two or three weeks. Do not, he warns, house the pullets with the hens for the hens are poor teachers and take advantage of the pullets.

Early housing of the whole flock may invite an outbreak of cannibalism. Place a battery of nests on the range for the birds left there and give them normal rations of mash and grain. A common mistake, he says, would be to keep the whole flock on the range and to reduce the amount of mash feed to delay maturity; maturity might be delayed a week or so but the pullets would not make their full development or be ready for a season's heavy laying.

The college of agriculture at Ithaca has just printed a new leaflet on publications on farming and home making, which catalogs all the bulletins on these subjects. A post card asking for E-47 will bring this list to you. From it you may select any bulletins you may wish.

New "Measuring Stick" For New York State Potatoes

Chances in New York State Potato Grades Became Effective September 15 to Correspond With New United States Grades.

Commissnoner of Agriculture and Markets Charles H. Baldwin announces that revised New York State grades for potatoes became effective September 15. These changes were made in order that the New York State grades would correspond with the revised United States grades for potatoes which became effective on the same date.

In making these changes Commissioner Baldwin points to the fact that the New York State law governing the sale of cull potatoes remained unchanged. All potatoes falling in the cull classification must be plainly and conspicuously branded "Culls" according to article 12-a of the Agriculture and Market law. Article 12-a has been in effect since 1931 and has met with considerable favor from growers, the trade and consumers alike. It is further stated in the law that all potatoes sold on the basis of Official New York State Standards for potatoes must meet the requirements of these standards. Some of the most important changes are pointed out by Commissioner Baldwin:

"Generally speaking, the changes may be considered in the nature of additions rather than changes. The principal change is in the minimum size requirement for U. S. No. 1 grade. The minimum in the present grade is 1⅞ inches for round varieties and 1¾ inches for long varieties. The new U. S. No. 1 grade requires a minimum of 1⅞ inches for all varieties unless some other minimum size is specified in the sales contract. Therefore a quotation of 'U. S. No. 1' means, as far as size is concerned, that the potatoes are 1⅞ inches minimum with not over 5 per cent below this size and that there is no guarantee that the potatoes in the lot are larger than this minimum size.

The principal addition made in the new standards is the size classification which can be used in connection with the grade statement and which is designed to furnish buyers and sellers a more definite understanding regarding the size of the potatoes in a particular lot. A 'Size A' classification has been provided for potatoes which are generally considered of a desirable size for table use. For example, a lot of round type potatoes quoted as 'U. S. No. 1, Size A' means that the potatoes meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade and at least 60 per cent by weight is 2¼ inches or larger in diameter and not over 3 per cent by weight of the potatoes is under 1⅞ inches in diameter. Similarly a lot of long type potatoes quoted as 'U. S. No. 1, Size A' means that the potatoes meet the requirement of U. S. No. 1 grade and at least 40 per cent by weight is 6 ounces or larger and not over 3 per cent by weight is under 1⅞ inches in diameter.

"There is also provided a 'Size B' classification for potatoes ranging in size from 1½ inches to not over 2 inches in diameter with a tolerance of 5 per cent for potatoes under 1½ inches and 15 per cent for potatoes over 2 inches. Potatoes within this range have been termed by the trade 'No. 2's' or 'Seconds'. Under the new standards such potatoes may be quoted as 'U. S. No. 1, Size B provided they meet the remaining requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade.

"Size A and Size B. classification may be used in connection with all grades except U. S. Fancy. The new standards also make provision for quoting in connection with a grade statement other sizes such as 'U. S. No. 1, 2 inch minimum' and U. S. No. 1, 6-10 oz.' etc.

"A new grade termed 'U. S. Commercial' has been added. This grade is an intermediate grade between U. S. No. 1 and U. S. No. 2. It requires that at least 80 per cent of the potatoes shall meet the requirement of U. S. No. 1 grade and that the remainder may be U. S. No. 2 except for a tolerance of 6 per cent for potatoes which may be below U. S. No. 2 grade, and except that the potatoes shall be free from serious damage by dirt instead of free from damage by dirt as is required for U. S. No. 1 potatoes.

"Several definitions have been added to the grades in order to secure more uniformity in grading. These are based on interpretations which have been used in the past and therefore should not be considered as changes.

"Generally speaking, growers and shippers may continue to grade potatoes under the new grade specifications as they have under the grades which have been in effect except that they will need to pay more attention to the size factor if they expect to pack potatoes to meet Size A and Size B classification."

Inspection work in New York State both in shipping and receiving points will be conducted on the basis of these new standards, and growers and shippers alike should familiarize themselves with their provisions.

Copies of the revised grades may be obtained from the Bureau of Markets, Department of Agriculture and Markets, State Office Building, Albany, N. Y., or from the Rochester Office of the Department, located at 300 Terminal Building.

Legion Post Banquet Very Successful

Fete at American House Well Attended — Officers Installed — Membership Campaign Underway.

Members of Williams-Greengrass Post, No. 730, American Legion, and guests, to the number of twenty-five, gathered at the American House last Thursday evening for a sumptuous banquet, preceding the installation of newly elected officers. The hotel management outdid itself in serving a meal long to be remembered—roast pork and dressing, mashed potatoes, creamed peas, tomato salad, celery, pickles, olives, rolls, pumpkin pie and coffee—and if a frown was present it wasn't discernible. Instead, smiles abounded and commendations from all quarters rewarded the effort of Mr. and Mrs. Sisto to make the service and cuisine so eminently pleasing.

Following the banquet the Legionnaires adjourned to post headquarters in City Hall when newly elected officers, headed by Elmer C. Bovee as post commander, were installed by Leo Poitras, county commander A report was received from the Old Home Day committee recommending that plans for the holding of an Old Home Day celebration this year be abandoned. The report of the committee was accepted. Francis James, commander at Painted Post, and past county adjutant, gave a talk on membership. He emphasized that the Legion is responsible for the welfare of disabled service men and for surviving wives and children of deceased service men.

Leo Poitras, county cammander, in an informal talk paid high tribute to achievements of the post and its auxiliary during the past year. He praised the accomplishments of the retiring commander, Edward G. Ferguson and the retiring adjutant, Elmer C. Bovee, saying that their leadership and hard, earnest efforts in behalf of the post, had greatly assisted the local organization to attain high ranking in the county.

The appointment of John W. Russ as post adjutant for the coming year was announced by the new commander, Elmer C. Bovee. Dr. A. G. Stiker expressed a desire to retire as post service officer after fourteen years of continuous service, but upon unanimous request of the post, was prevailed upon to continue for another year, with Edward G. Ferguson as assistant.

Teams headed by Commander Bovee and Adjutant Russ were organized to participate in a membership campaign extending to December 30. Commander Bovee's team consists of Edward G. Ferguson, Reuben Brown, William Lewis, W. J. Kennedy, Walter Reynolds, Dr. A. G. Stiker, Dr. W. E. Barron, Thomas Grandon, Thomas Gaffney, Rathbun Stewart and Walter Myers. Adjutant Russ's team consists of Claire Chart, Russell Allen, Dr. H. E. Auringer, Robert Mason, William Newman, J. G. Wallace, Frank Root, B. F. Short, Charles Wilcox, Ray Towner and Curtis Kemp.

It was decided to hold the next meeting on October 12th, thus making it possible to receive a report from Commander Bovee upon his return from the National Convention at Chicago, where he will attend as a delegate.

Pepper Bakery Leads Way In Business Recovery At Addison

Local shop going at top speed unable to fill all its orders Demand for new sliced bread makes necessary the purchase of larger machine as soon as new equipment is placed.

Whether the country has turned the business corner, or not may be problematical, but one Addison industry is doing a rushing business remindful of the old prosperity days. The William E. Pepper Bakery, is the place referred to and judging by enormous demand which has sprung up for Pep-O Bread, a starving country must be trying to grow fat without delay.

Like nearly all lines of business, the local bakery had been in the doldrums for many months. In August Mr. Pepper decided to make some changes in his equipment and prepare to manufacture a new loaf of sliced bread. After visiting a number of bakeries through Western New York and Pennsylvania, he placed on order for a slicing machine and wrapping outfit which Mr. Pepper believed would take care of the demand for the proposed new loaf.

The Pepper bakery signed up the bakery code under NRA, and announced it would call its new product the "Nu-Deal Loaf". Then a strange thing happened. Time slipped along and the new machinery failed to arrive, but for some inexplainable reason business began to pick up at the Pepper plant. For several weeks the local bakery had not been sending a truck to Corning, but the demand for the Addison bread became so insistene this route was re-established with Glen Payne in charge, and within a few days the output of the Pepper Bakery was doubled.

The new slicing equipment finally arrived a few days ago, and the first of Pepper's sliced bread was sold the first of the week. Already the demand for this bread has reached such proportions the new equipment is inadequate to fill the demand. Consequently Mr. Pepper has placed an order for a large, automatic slicer and wrapping machine capable of slicing and wrapping 1,800 loaves an hour. The "Nu-Deal" loaf of sliced bread is being offered customers for the first today or Friday. Besides this loaf the Pepper Bakery is still turning out its popular "Thrift" loaf and a sliced "Thrift" loaf.

Mr. Pepper believes the increased demand for his product to be due to its quality and value. Using the best ingredients obtainable the Pepper Bakery is baking as fine a loaf of bread as anyone can make, and at the same time is holding the price down. Although the price of flour has mounted considerably in the past few months, the local bakery still turns out a big loaf of bread, weighing twenty ounces that retails for ten cents.

Along with the big increase in his bread business, Mr. Pepper has enjoyed a corresponding jump in demand for his cookies, fried cakes and pastries, which at present exceeds the capacity of the plant. Since August first three people have been added to the staff employed by the Pepper Bakery.

"The result of the conference of Monday evening," Mr. Barnes states, "will materially help to build a bigger and better program of work in 1934. Largely because of the splendid cooperation of the township chairmen and committee, all of whom are volunteer workers, we are able to carry on an extensive program and serve so large a group."

Addison Third In County Judging

Finnerty - Coached Team Places Second in Dairy Cattle and Poultry—Local Boys in Competition With Five Other Schools.

Competing with five other schools and sixty-five contestants from Steuben county at the student judging contest held at Bath Fair, the representatives from the new Agricultural course of the Addison High School, finished third as a team with a score of 1465 out of a possible 1800. Dairy cattle, poultry, horses, corn and potatoes were judged.

In the individual scores, Lynn Saxton was third among the contestants with a score of 410 out of a possible 600. Lynn also took second in dairy cattle contest. Wilfred Hurd placed second in the poultry judging with a score of 185 out of 200.

In view of the fact that the Addison team had but two weeks of actual instructions and but one week of judging under Mr. Finnerty the results were most encouraging. All of the other contestants have had at least one year's work and many judged at the State Fair in September.

The boys who represented Addison were Lynn Saxton, Thomas Reagan, Warren Crane, Wilfred Hurd and Stanley Ward.

The school scores were as follows: Campbell, 1620; Bath, 1480; Addison, 1465; Bradford, 1420; Prattsburg, 1280; Hammondsport, 1260.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Davis are expected home Sunday following a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Elkins in New York.

Care In Handling and Digging Urged

Farm Bureau Calls Attention To Possible Damage to Potato Crop.

Much of the injury that occurs in the harvesting of the potato crop can be avoided in using reasonable care in handling and digging the crop.

The Steuben County Farm Bureau calls attention to these facts because many growers do not realize the extent of damage done in the harvest. A survey made by the bureau at digging time in 1931 showed that in some cases 13 per cent of the tubers were cut by the digger, 29 per cent were bruised and 15 per cent skinned. The same survey showed that practically all this injury can be avoided because in many cases the amount of injury was reduced to practically nothing.

All makes of diggers, new and old, were in use on the farms visited in the survey and the results that were being obtained showed that it was the proper use and adjustment of the digger and not the type or the age that accounted for the amount of injury. There was less damage when the digger was operated at a low rate of speed, where the digger point was run deep enough into the ground to avoid cutting the tubers and to provide enough soil on the chain to cushion the tubers as they passed over.

When the soil is dry and the tubers immature, replacing the agitators under the chain with rollers reduced the amount of bruising. Under such conditions a low hung digger with a continuous apron bruises less potatoes than diggers equipped with rear attachments.

Bruising can be reduced by placing strips of canvas or collar pads on the sides of the frame and rubber hose on the shaker bars. Skinning is reduced by letting the potatoes dry somewhat before picking up. Many such ideas can be used to reduce the amount of harvest injury.

With the apple season at hand, why not send to the office of publication of the state colleges at Ithaca for the bulletin on how to use apples? Just ask for E-88 with one of Uncle Sam's one-cent post cards.

George Farnham To Write of France

For Next Weeks Edition of ADVERTISER—Returned This Week to Princeton—Summer Trip to London and Continent for Special Study in World Affairs and in French Language, Customs.

George Farnham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Farnham, returned Monday to Princeton University to begin his junior year in the school of international affairs.

Mr. Farnham returned two weeks ago from an extended European trip which afforded him an excellent opportunity to observe history in the making. Sailing in June on the S. S. Manhattan, it was his privilege on board the ship to form the acquaintance of George Sokolsky, feature writer and specialist on Far Eastern affairs on the staff of the New York Times. Prof. Raymond Moley, then assistant secretary of state, was a passenger on the ship, accompanied by Herbert Bayard Swope and by Arthur Mullen and Herbert Bayard Swope, Jr., secretaries to Prof. Moley and to Mr. Swope, respectively. The younger Swope is a student at Princeton and through him Mr. Farnham was introduced to Prof. Moley and other members of the diplomatic mission then enroute to the London conference.

The ship arrived at Queenstown, Ireland, on June 28th at 5:00 A. M. The Lord Mayor and several minor officials boarded the ship during its two-hour stay in Queenstown, and had breakfast with members of the diplomatic group.

The S. S. Manhattan continued on to Plymouth, England, arriving there 6:30 P. M. From there Mr. Farnham took a train immediately for London, wher efor several days, he followed the work of the World Economic Conference, learning much concerning Moley's spectacular dash to London, and its relation to subsequent events, from his associations with newspaper men and from the English press.

A jaunt to Paris provided the only purely vacation part of Mr. Farnham's trip. He then went on to Geneva where a week was spent in a diligent study of foreign relations and international affairs. Following this, he spent a month in Nice, France, learning conversational French and gaining a deeper insight into the language and customs of the French people. Nice being a popular resort and a rendezvous of French people of all classes, an excellent opportunity was afforded to gain a broad understanding of French customs and the French viewpoint.

Before returning to America on the S. S. La Fayette, a French line boat, an additional stop of two days was made in Paris.

It is a pleasure to announce that Mr. Farnham has kindly consented to outline some of his impressions of France and her people for publication in the ADVERTISER. It is probable that his article will appear in next week's issue.
